Candidato: Denis Bartolomei
Posizione Target: CRM Specialist
Data: 12 November 2025

Sintesi del Profilo

You present a structured, well-crafted profile with strong analytical and project management skills, mainly acquired through strategy consulting and IT transformation experiences. Your advanced education and proven learning ability highlight your adaptability, but there is little evidence of hands-on CRM or marketing campaign management. While your academic and professional path suggests potential and reliability, transitioning to CRM will require targeted upskilling in both technical and soft skill areas.

Esito Analisi CV

Your CV is concise, clearly organized, and error-free, showing an excellent analytical background and solid experience in project management and data analysis. However, it does not demonstrate direct exposure to CRM campaign design, execution, or marketing automation platforms, and lacks in-depth experience in campaign-related collaboration or content creation. The educational qualifications meet the basic requirements but are not specifically aligned to marketing.

Esito Colloquio

During the case interview, you were unable to demonstrate either technical or practical know-how in CRM or marketing automation, and there was no evidence of analytical thinking, campaign planning, teamwork, or creative problem-solving. Compared to your CV—which suggested transferable skills—your performance highlighted a pronounced practical gap and the need to develop operational competencies and confidence in cross-functional environments.

Market Benchmark

Market Trends Analysis

Market data indicates that professionals who move into CRM Specialist roles most commonly come from backgrounds in marketing management, product responsibility, and direct marketing functions. Experience in roles focused on business analysis, business intelligence, and commercial analysis—particularly within the technology and marketing sectors—also frequently precedes entry into this position.

Candidate Evaluation

Your career path demonstrates a strong foundation in strategic consulting and business analysis, with a notable emphasis on IT strategy and business intelligence. While your experience aligns with some of the analytical and business intelligence aspects seen in typical CRM Specialist trajectories, your background is more oriented toward strategic and IT consulting rather than hands-on marketing or CRM campaign management. This positions you as an atypical but coherent candidate: you bring valuable analytical and strategic skills relevant to CRM, though your path diverges from the more traditional marketing-focused progression commonly observed in the market.
